A joyful journey which was inundated with multitudinous experience in different Research institute of Kyoto University and cooperating organization. As a D1 student of primatology study, I benefited a lot from the speeches and animal observation in Primate Research Institute, Japan Monkey Center, Seto Marine Biological Laboratory and Kyoto City Zoo. Most of all, I was so exciting to see François’s langur (Trachypithecus francoisi) in Japan Monkey Center. I focused on the behavioral and ecological study on this species in Ma Yang River National Natural Reserve in China for bachelor degree thesis. This trip also broadened my horizon and opened my mind. I was so surprised that I could get a chance to close to the critical assembly. This is an extremely rewarding course. The only drawback is the language problem. As a foreign student who can not speak Japanese, I expect more presentations and notice in English. Fortunately, we got lots of Japanese friends, it is really much obliged for them to translate both important notice and the majority of presentation. In a word, this trip not only delightful but also more than meet the eye.
